

Jorge Peris

Alcira, 1969.

Lives and works in El Palmar.

The body of work by Jorge Peris has focused on the creation of site-specific installations, in which he explores the microcosm of relationships generated from materials as widely disparate as bacteria, algae, sand or salt, creating environments whose process ends up forming the display of the piece in question.

Jorge Peris turns the room into a laboratory. This has led him to collaborate with biologists, physicists and even psychologists in the development of his research, placing himself in an experimental territory where error and accident go along with the implementation of his artistic practice.

His work is part of collections such as the MAXXI Collection, Antinori, Collezione Giuliani, Bombas Gens or INELCOM. He has also exhibited at the ICA (London), Tang Contemporary Art (Beijing), Newman Popiashvili Gallery (New York), MICA MOCA (Berlin), MACRO (Rome), Nicodim Gallery (Bucharest), CA2M (Madrid) or La Conservera (Murcia), among other outstanding venues.
